Preface

The enactment P.L. 96-272, the Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980, culminated seven years of Congressional initiative begun by Senator Alan Cranston in the 93rd Congress.

Representative James C. Corman claimed that the legislation was probably the most important child welfare bill enacted in a great many years. Senator Daniel Moynihan called it the first significant piece of social welfare legislation to pass the Congress since the inauguration of President Carter. As such it represents a realignment of Federal policy from one of emphasizing foster care placement of children to one of encouraging greater efforts to find permanent homes for children either by making it possible for them to return to their own homes or by placing them in adoptive homes.

This index to the legislative history of P.L. 96-272 covers subjects and provisions whether or not they were included in the final public law.

Components of the legislative history include:
